

Healdsburg is Hotter Than Ever, Here Are 6 New Places to Check Out

Buzzy new tasting rooms and restaurants and a reimagined historic inn are among the highlights. BY DANA REBMANN | OCTOBER 2021

With its picturesque plaza surrounded by top notch restaurants, wineries and shops, Healdsburg has always been a popular destination. Over the past few months, the northern Sonoma town has added even more reasons to put a visit on the calendar: Buzzy new tasting rooms and restaurants and a reimagined historic inn are among the highlights. Click through the gallery above to discover some Healdsburg spots destined to become new favorite.

SLIDE 19 OF 22

The Madrona: The historic Madrona Manor is expected to reopen as The Madrona in February 2022 after a change in ownership and an extensive facelift. The 22-room inn was originally built as a private residence in 1881. The building houses a Michelin-starred restaurant, which is temporarily closed but will also reopen in early 2022, with a refreshed look and a new, more casual concept and menu. 1001 Westside Road, Healdsburg, themadronahotel.com (Courtesy of The Madrona)

SLIDE 20 OF 22

A rendering of one of the 22 guestrooms planned for The Madrona. (Courtesy of The Madrona)

SLIDE 21 OF 22

A rendering of the parlor planned for The Madrona. (Courtesy of The Madrona)

<https://www.sonomamag.com/healdsburg-is-hotter-than-ever-here-are-6-new-places-to-check-out/?gSlide=19>